Objective of the Programme

On August 20, 2025, a delegation from AIMAN College of Arts and Science for Women attended the 29th Annual General Body Meeting organized by Youth Exnora International and the Students' Exnora wing of Bharathidasan University. This significant regional gathering, hosted at Holy Cross College, served as a strategic assembly for educational institutions across the Trichy district to converge and deliberate on pressing environmental and social challenges. The meeting was primarily designed to synthesize the efforts of various student wings, ensuring that the upcoming academic year is marked by a structured and impactful approach to community service. Central to the agenda was the promotion of the "Clean, Green, and Pollution-Free" initiative, a mandate that seeks to transform academic campuses into hubs of ecological sustainability. Furthermore, the assembly functioned as a formal platform for the scrutiny of annual reports, which are instrumental in determining the recipients of the prestigious "Annual Awards 2025," thereby incentivizing excellence in student-led environmental advocacy.

Summary of the Programme

The meeting was presided over by esteemed dignitaries, most notably the Chief Guest, Mr. P. Mohan. As an International HR Trainer, the Founder of Youth Exnora International, and the Chairperson of the Child Welfare Committee for the Government of Tamil Nadu, Mr. Mohan provided a high-level perspective on the intersection of youth volunteerism and civic duty. Under the organizational leadership of General Secretary Dr. Senthil K. Nathan, the event facilitated a professional exchange between staff advisors and student leaders. The AIMAN College delegation—comprising two faculty advisors along with the Student President and Secretary—actively engaged in the administrative requirements of the session. This included the formal submission of mandatory registration documentation, the college's comprehensive annual activity report, and the requisite annual subscription fees, thereby solidifying the institution's standing within the regional Exnora network.

Outcome of the Programme

A significant portion of the proceedings was dedicated to an interactive session led by Mr. P. Mohan, who emphasized that environmental protection is not merely a hobby but a fundamental responsibility of the modern student. These discussions naturally aligned the regional efforts of Students' Exnora with the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). By focusing on waste reduction and "green" planning, the meeting directly addressed the targets of SDG 13 (Climate Action) and SDG 15 (Life on Land). Furthermore, the collaborative nature of the meeting, which encouraged the establishment of new units and the strengthening of existing ones, served as a local manifestation of SDG 17 (Partnerships for the Goals). The Award Committee's rigorous review of college reports further ensured that student initiatives are held to a standard of quality and impact consistent with global sustainability frameworks.

Feedback

The participation in the 29th Annual General Body Meeting was perceived by the AIMAN College delegation as an exceptionally constructive and enlightening experience. The students reported that the insights shared by Mr. P. Mohan were particularly impactful, as he bridged the gap between theoretical environmentalism and practical, grassroots volunteerism. This interaction served to boost the morale of the student leaders, instilling a sense of purpose regarding their roles as changemakers within the local community.

From an administrative perspective, the faculty advisors found the meeting to be an essential exercise in accountability and strategic networking. The process of scrutinizing the annual reports provided a valuable benchmarking opportunity, allowing our representatives to observe the diverse methodologies employed by other institutions to tackle environmental issues. This exposure has inspired the AIMAN College Exnora unit to refine its documentation and project execution strategies for the upcoming cycle.

Furthermore, the emphasis on the "Clean, Green, and Pollution-Free" initiative provided a clear, actionable framework that the students are eager to implement. The feedback from the delegation suggests that such regional assemblies are vital for maintaining momentum in social service sectors. The college acknowledges that the event successfully fostered a spirit of healthy competition and collaboration, leaving the participants better equipped to align their local campus activities with broader global sustainability targets.

Report on Plastic-Proof Your Pantry: Small Steps for a Trash-Free Home

Club Name:	Youth Exnora Club
Title of the event:	Plastic-Proof Your Pantry: Small Steps for a Trash-Free Home
Event Date:	10.12.2025
Total Number of Students Participated:	60
Venue:	K.Kallukudi North
Time:	10.00 A.M
No of Beneficiaried:	Above 60
Sustainable Goal Involved:	Yes (SDG 12- Life on Land)
Program Coordinators:	Mrs. Jannathul Firdows and Mrs.B.Farhan

Objective of the Programme

The outreach programme was designed to align with United Nations Sustainable Development Goal 12 (Responsible Consumption and Production).

The specific objectives included:

- To educate the rural households of K. Kallukudi South on the hazards of single-use plastics in food storage.
- To demonstrate practical, low-cost alternatives to plastic packaging in the kitchen (the "Pantry").
- To promote the concept of a "Circular Economy" by encouraging traditional methods of storage and waste segregation.
- To empower women in the village to lead the transition toward a "Trash-Free Home."

Summary of the Programme

The 60-member volunteer team from AIMAN College of Arts and Science for Women conducted a door-to-door awareness drive and a community workshop titled "Plastic-Proof Your Pantry." The activity was divided into three segments:

- The Pantry Audit: Volunteers visited households and demonstrated how common plastic containers, thin carry bags, and multi-layered packaging (MLP) can be replaced with sustainable alternatives like glass, steel, and cloth bags.
- Demonstration Session: A central workshop was held where students showcased how to upcycle old clothes into "pantry bags" for storing pulses and vegetables. They also explained the harmful effects of storing hot food items in plastic covers.
- Newspaper Distribution: A specially prepared flyer/mini-newspaper was distributed, containing a checklist for a "Zero-Waste Kitchen" and traditional methods of food preservation that avoid plastic.

Outcome of the Programme

The programme achieved significant milestones in community awareness:

- Direct Impact: Approximately [Insert Number] households were educated on identifying "hidden plastics" in their daily food storage.
- Adoption of Alternatives: Several villagers committed to replacing plastic milk sachets and grocery bags with traditional vessels and yellow cloth bags (Manjapai).
- Waste Segregation Awareness: Residents learned the importance of separating dry plastic waste from wet kitchen waste to ensure it does not end up in landfills.
- Volunteer Leadership: The students gained deep insights into rural consumption patterns and enhanced their communication skills in translating complex SDG goals into simple, actionable local language.

Feedback

Many women expressed that they were unaware of the health risks associated with plastic-wrapped hot food. They appreciated the students for suggesting "Zero-Cost" alternatives like reusing old glass jars and stainless steel containers. The students found the experience eye-opening. They noted that rural households are often more receptive to sustainable practices once the link between "plastic-free living" and "health/cost-saving" is clearly established. The Panchayat representatives of K. Kallukudi South praised AIMAN College for focusing on a practical, household-level issue that directly improves the village's hygiene and the health of its residents.

Report on Green Motoring and Breath Control through Yoga

Club Name:	Youth Exnora Club
Title of the event:	Motoring and Breath Control through Yoga
Event Date:	17.09.2025
Total Number of Students Participated:	250
Venue:	AIMAN College of Arts and Science for Women
Time:	10.00 A.M- 1:00 PM
No of Beneficiaried:	Above 250
Sustainable Goal Involved:	Yes (SDG 3- Good Health and Well-Being)
Program Coordinators:	Mrs. B. Farhan and Mrs. S. Jeya Malathi

Objective of the Programme

The primary objective of this awareness activity was to sensitize students and faculty to the dual importance of environmental sustainability and personal well-being. By combining the concepts of "Green Motoring" and "Breath Control through Yoga," the programme aimed to:

- Promote eco-friendly transportation habits to reduce carbon footprints.
- Introduce the physiological and mental benefits of Pranayama (breath control).
- Encourage a holistic lifestyle that balances outdoor environmental responsibility with indoor physical health.

Summary of the Programme

On September 17, 2025, the Youth Exnora International Club hosted an insightful session at the AIMAN College Auditorium. The event, which ran from 10:00 AM to 1:00 PM, was inaugurated under the guidance of the Principal, Dr. M. Munafur Hussaina, and coordinated by Mrs. B. Farhan and Mrs. S. Jeyamalathi.

The first segment focused on Green Motoring, where speakers discussed the impact of vehicular emissions and the benefits of transitioning to electric vehicles, carpooling, and regular maintenance to ensure fuel efficiency.

The second half of the session transitioned into a practical and theoretical workshop on Breath Control through Yoga. Participants were guided through various breathing techniques (Pranayama), highlighting how intentional breathing can reduce stress, improve lung capacity, and enhance focus—essential for students in a demanding academic environment.

Outcome of the Programme

The programme successfully achieved several key outcomes:

- Enhanced Environmental Literacy: Participants gained a clearer understanding of how individual choices in "motoring" contribute to broader climate goals.
- Practical Health Skills: Students learned actionable yoga techniques that can be practiced daily to manage anxiety and improve overall respiratory health.
- Community Engagement: The event strengthened the presence of the Youth Exnora International Club within the college, fostering a spirit of volunteerism and social responsibility among the attendees.

Feedback

The feedback from the participants was overwhelmingly positive. Many students expressed that the session was a "unique blend of science and spirituality," noting that they had never previously considered the link between the air quality influenced by motoring and the quality of their own breath.

- Content: Attendees appreciated the practical yoga demonstrations, finding them easy to follow and highly relevant.
- Relevance: Faculty members noted that the "Green Motoring" segment was timely, given the rising concerns over urban pollution in Tiruchirappalli.
- Organization: The flow of the event was described as smooth, though some participants suggested that a longer Q&A session would have been beneficial to further explore the technical aspects of green energy.

Event Date:	10.12.2025
Total Number of Students Participated:	60
Venue:	Inamkulathur
Time:	11.30 A.M
No of Beneficiaried:	Above 60
Sustainable Goal Involved:	Yes (SDG 13- Climate Action)
Program Coordinators:	Mrs. A. Jannathul Firdows and Mrs. B. Farhan

Objective of the Programme:

The main objectives of the programme were:

- To create awareness about the importance of trees in maintaining ecological balance.
- To encourage students and the public to actively participate in tree plantation and nurturing activities.
- To educate participants on the role of trees in reducing pollution and combating climate change.
- To promote environmental responsibility and sustainable living practices.
- To align environmental actions with Sustainable Development Goals, especially climate action and life on land.

Summary of the Programme

The programme commenced with an introduction highlighting the need for environmental conservation in today's world. Exnora Club members actively participated in spreading awareness through pamphlet distribution and interaction with students and the local community. The pamphlets carried simple yet impactful messages about planting trees, protecting existing greenery, and nurturing saplings for long-term benefits.

Participants were informed about how trees help in improving air quality, conserving biodiversity, preventing soil erosion, and supporting sustainable development. Emphasis was placed on individual responsibility and how small actions, such as planting and caring for a tree, can collectively bring about significant environmental change. The programme successfully conveyed the message that a green Earth is essential for a sustainable future.

The programme received positive feedback from students, teachers, and community members. Participants appreciated the theme "Green Earth for a Sustainable Future" as it clearly conveyed the importance of protecting nature for the well-being of future generations. The pamphlets were found to be informative, easy to understand, and effective in spreading awareness.

Students felt inspired to take part in environmental activities and recognized the importance of nurturing trees rather than merely planting them. Teachers and organizers observed active participation and interest throughout the programme. The initiative strengthened awareness about sustainable practices and motivated individuals to contribute towards protecting nature. Overall, the programme created a positive impact by encouraging eco-friendly attitudes and actions that support long-term environmental sustainability.
