The Institution's Innovation Council (IIC) and Library Club of AIMAN College jointly organized a student activity titled "Identify & Document: Temples, Handicraft Hubs, Nature Spots, and Monuments." The initiative was conducted with the active participation of the English Department, encouraging students to explore, document, and present cultural, historical, and environmental resources.

Objectives

- To enhance students' knowledge about cultural heritage and natural resources.
- To encourage research, documentation, and creative writing skills.
- To promote teamwork and interdisciplinary collaboration.

Activity Details

Students were divided into groups and assigned the task of identifying and documenting diverse heritage and environmental sites, such as temples, handicraft hubs, natural attractions, and monuments.

Each group prepared a manual guide that highlighted:

- The historical significance of the site.
- Its cultural relevance.
- Its environmental value.

A total of 30 student-prepared manuals were submitted. These included detailed descriptions, photographs, and reflective insights, collectively forming a valuable resource for academic and cultural reference.

Outcomes

- Students gained first-hand experience in research and field-based documentation.
- They developed a deeper awareness of local heritage and natural resources.
- Writing, editing, and presentation skills were significantly enhanced.
- A repository of 30 manuals was created, which can serve as reference material for future academic and cultural initiatives.

Coordinators

The activity was coordinated by Dr. S. Kanagasundari, Librarian & IQAC Coordinator, AIMAN College, under the guidance of the Library Club and with the support of the English Department faculty.

Conclusion

The activity was highly successful in achieving its objectives by integrating academic learning with cultural and environmental awareness. It also fostered creativity, teamwork, and documentation skills among students.

The initiative also contributed to preserving knowledge of local heritage and natural wonders, reinforcing the importance of experiential learning.
